

PERCEPTIONS OF WHETHER SOUTH AFRICA'S LABOUR LAWS IMPEDE JOB CREATION

This report investigates the perceptions of registered South African voters towards the country's labour laws.

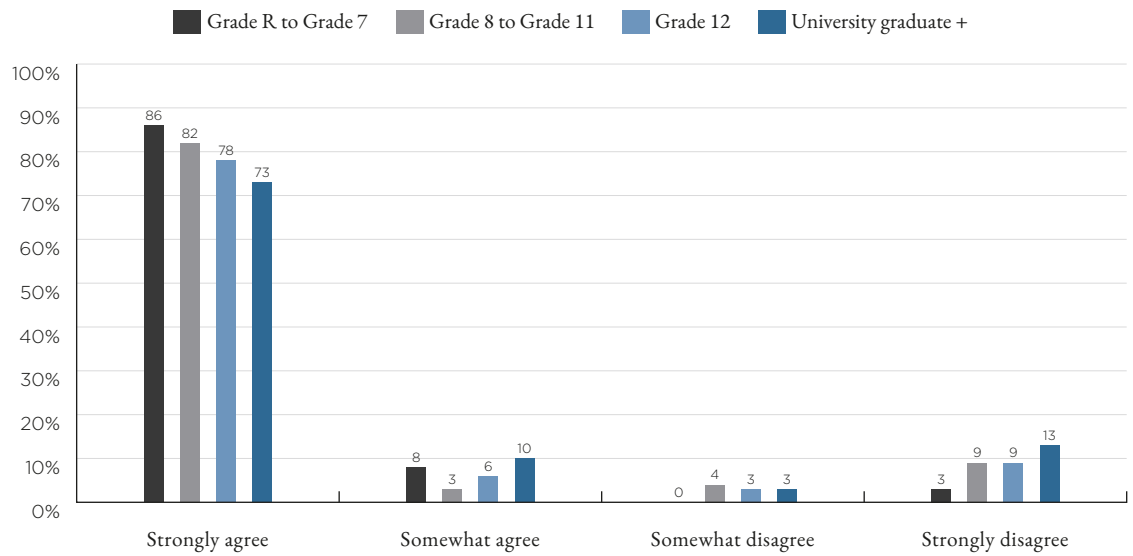

The data is based on a survey of 1 412 geographically and demographically representative registered voters commissioned by the Foundation in October 2023. That survey had a national margin of error of 5%. Totals may not add up to 100% where rounding has occurred or where participants could not answer a question.

SOUTH AFRICA'S LABOUR LAWS MAKE IT DIFFICULT TO CREATE JOBS AND THE LAWS SHOULD BE RELAXED SO MORE PEOPLE CAN FIND WORK. DO YOU AGREE OR DISAGREE WITH THIS STATEMENT?

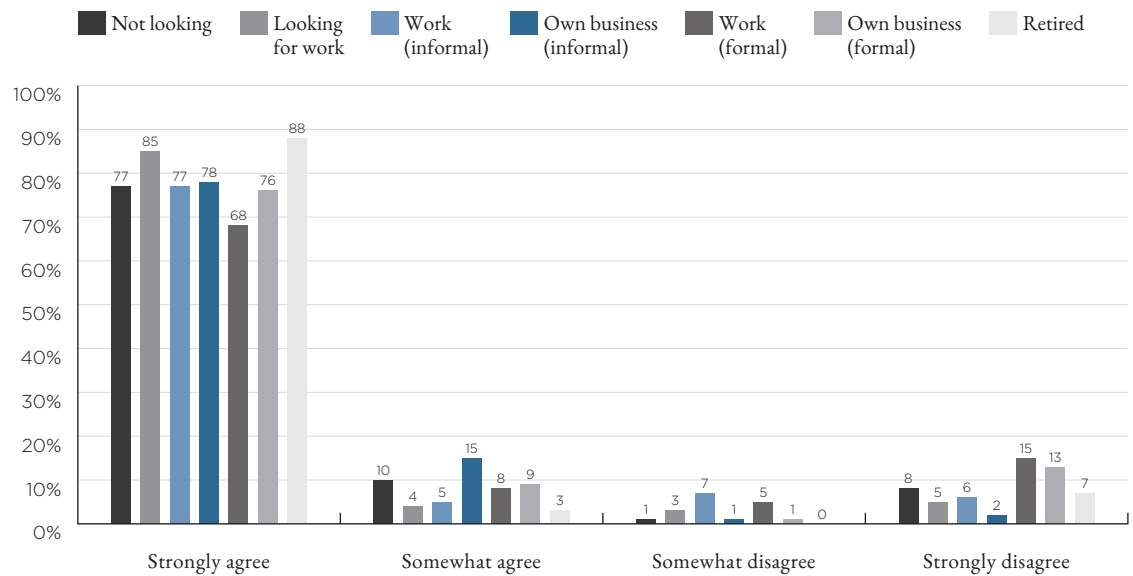

By race

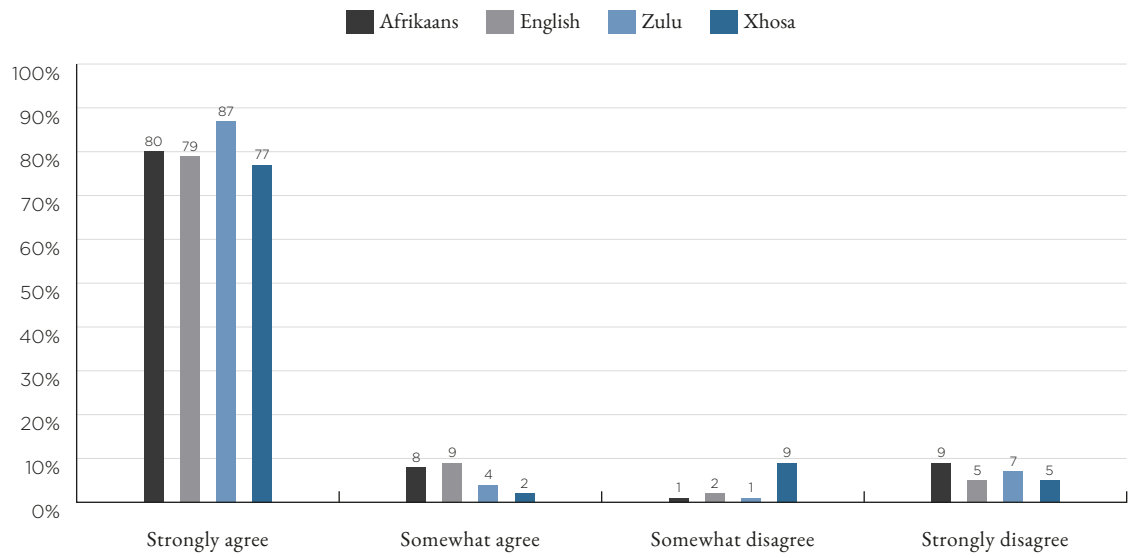

By highest level of education

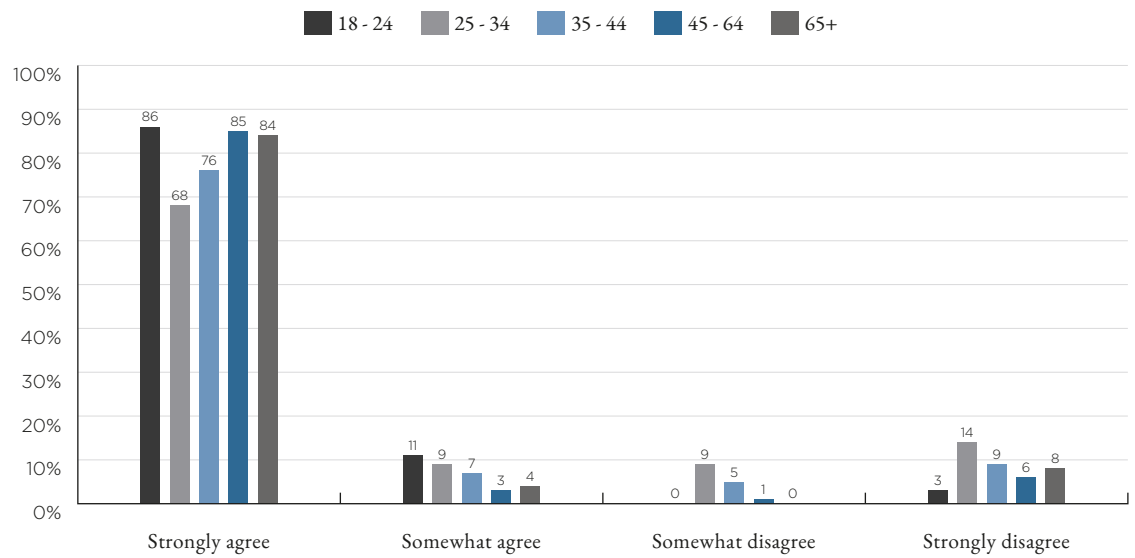

By employment status

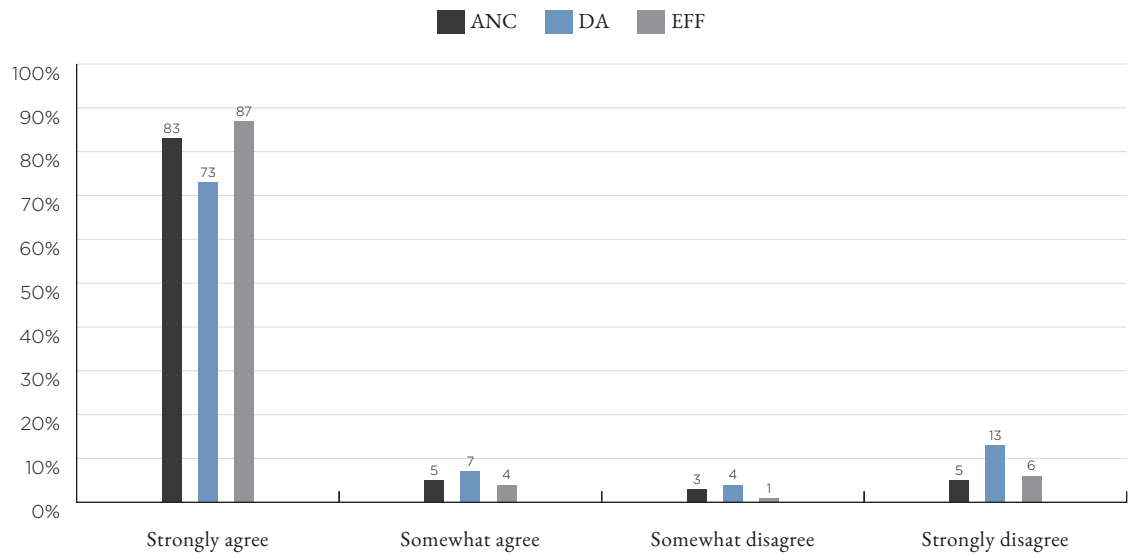

By home language

By age

By party affiliation

TENTATIVE CONCLUSIONS

The data reveals that 80.3% of registered voters believe that the country’s labour laws impede job creation. This finding holds with majorities across all the demographic splits including race, education level, employment status, home language, age and party affiliation.

This report was produced by the Social Research Foundation, a think-tank focusing on public policy issues and the promotion of democracy.

Enquiries can be sent to gabriel@srfreports.co.za

All other reports can be found at www.srfreports.co.za